

Some thoughts to consider as we prepare to look at the Parable of “The Tenants” (Mark 12:1-12) and Good Friday/Easter

- Have you ever met someone and later, after realizing who the person was, wish you had interacted with them differently? You may have asked different questions, commented on something you knew about them, expressed appreciation or anger?
- As we look at the parable of the Tenants in Mark 12:1-12 and as we approach Good Friday; why do you think that the reaction to Jesus today can be on a spectrum of ignoring, rejection or even hostility?
